

Dr Winibaldus Stefanus MERE

Associate Professor and Senior Research Fellow

Dr. Mere received his PhD in Law from SOAS Law School, University of London. The focus of his research has been on the responsibility and accountability of multinational corporations with regard to human rights within the prism of the interlink between international and national law, as well as hard and soft law (human rights and business). His current research projects include "economic and business ethics", "law, social system and ethics" and "Catholic social ethics". As to the project on the accountability of multinational corporations with regard to human rights, the Institute has decided to focus on corporate human rights due diligence as one of the common research topics from the year 2019 onwards. This project explores the possibilities and limits for the implementation of corporate human rights due diligence under the United Nations Guiding Principle on Business and Human Rights (2011).
