In 1981, Fr. John Seland joined a volunteer organization called Rural Asia Solidarity Association. The aim of the organization was to allow volunteers to experience living with a poor family in northeastern Thailand for a period of three weeks. Later, having been invited by Divine Word Missionaries in the Philippines to have the same experience in that country, Fr. Seland then began to take volunteers there. Desiring to do more, in 1999, the volunteers began to build small schools and new classrooms in various parts of the country. They also established and continue to manage six feeding programs for malnourished children. During his lecture, Fr. Seland will share his experiences doing this kind of work over a period of, roughly, thirty-one years.
